

LAUNCESTON FIELD
NATURALIST CLUB (LFNC)
(Website lfnc.org.au)

 Annual John Skemp
Memorial Lecture

Presented by Ornithologist Geoff Shannon, member of Birdlife Australia.

"From observation to conservation"

"How can we use our hobby to protect the things we love without spoiling our time with nature."

This presentation, using birds as an example, aims to show how to turn your observations into information useful to the preservation of our natural (seminatural) environment. It will start with some results and then discuss how these were arrived at and also most importantly how your observations matter and make it all possible. Some of the electronic data bases that are used will be discussed along with their pros and cons. eg Birdata, e-bird, i-naturalist, NVA and Atlas of Living Australia

This LFNC Meeting; Tuesday 7th May

7:30 pm at Briggs Hall
Scotch College Campus, 85 Penquite Road

Visitors Welcome

For further information phone Helen on 0429 293 647